

Short Bio (30 words)

Nancy Quatrano's an award-winning writer, an editor, speaker, and solopreneur. In addition to fiction writing, she owns and operates On-Target Words, a professional writing service. For more information, visit www.NLQuatrano.com.

Longer Bio (70 words)

Nancy Quatrano's an award-winning writer, an editor, speaker, and solopreneur. She's passionate about empowering people to follow their dreams and has presented workshops to writer's and women's groups from New Jersey to Florida. In addition to fiction writing, she owns and operates On-Target Words, a professional writing service that specializes in press releases, article writing, and content editing that has resulted in authors obtaining publication. For more information, visit www.NLQuatrano.com.

Long Bio (100 words)

Nancy Quatrano is an award-winning writer, an editor, speaker, and solopreneur. She spent thirty-plus years in corporate America and completed her business management degree at the age of forty-nine. She's passionate about empowering people to follow their dreams and has presented workshops to writer's and women's groups from New Jersey to Florida. Currently writing a mystery series, a women's fiction series, and short fiction, Nancy is the owner/operator of On-Target Words, a professional writing service that specializes in press releases that get noticed and content editing that has resulted in authors going to publication. For more information, please visit www.NLQuatrano.com.